Comments from participants:

"Thanking you both for bringing forth issues which I wasn't aware of or able to discuss, because I felt they weren't 'the norm', so to speak".

"I have relaxed more." "Very helpful to create open thinking."

"Coming along has built my confidence as a stepparent. I feel much happier in my relationship with my partner."

About the Course

Stepfamilies face unique challenges for all family members, which are not always recognised. They need different answers to family problems. Our courses have been run successfully for the past fifteen years and have given participants a heightened sense of understanding and increased confidence.

Making Stepfamilies Work is a course specifically for couples either in a stepfamily, or considering forming one. The course covers central issues faced by stepfamilies, including past histories, disciplining children and divided loyalties. An emphasis is placed on strengthening the couple relationship.

Topics include:

- Influences from the past
- Living with someone else's children
- The discipline challenge
- New roles
- Strengthening the couple relationship
